Wine of the Week!

Tilia 2015 Malbec/Syrah (Argentina)

The 2015 Malbec Syrah is quite smoky and has notes of cured meat and violets. There's almost 40% Syrah in the blend, and it seems like it has contributed quite strongly to the aromatics of the wine. Juicy, soft and polished, very drinkable, which seems to be the signature of the Tilia wines. Impressive!

Mike's Valentines Day Picks!

DMZ 2015 Rose' (South Africa)
Herbal notes of fynbos, blackcurrant leaf and raspberry tea lead the nose of this Cabernet-based rosé, and continue through to the medium-weight palate. There's a weight to the midpalate that's never quite brightened, while an astringent tone carries the finish.

Vina Zorzal 2015 Garnacha Rosado (Spain)
Dark, lurid pink. Powerful cherry and dark fruit aromas and flavors show a slightly jammy quality and pick up a peppery nuance with air. Warm and concentrated, showing red wine-like heft and breadth on a smooth, intensely fruity finish. I'd serve this plush wine alongside assertively seasoned, grilled duck or even red meats.

Hi! Prosecco (Italy)
A pleasant, apple-flavored Prosecco, with a relaxed, light froth and a crisp mineral finish. Drink now.

Chateau Pesquie 2015 "Terrasses" Rose' (France)
Chateau Pequie's 2015 Terrasses Rose is made in a clean, refreshing, crisp style and offers loads of white cherries, citrus blossom and floral aromas and flavors. It's a fabulous value and ideal for starting a meal over the coming summer months.

Pierre Moncuit Grand Cru Blanc De Blancs Champagne (France)
Floral notes accent flavors of ripe apple, kumquat, biscuit, anise and spun honey in this finely textured Champagne, while a hint of fleur del sel lingers on the clean, vibrant finish. Drink now through 2017.
