Wine OF THE Week

Te Mata 2018 Estate Sauvignon Blanc (NEW ZEALAND)

This wine really wraps up New Zealand Sauvignon Blanc in one brilliantly balanced package: Nettles nestle next to grapefruit; tomato leaf lingers beside guava; lime and pineapple perch alongside dried green herbs. Crisp, prickly acidity slices through a chalky texture that feels like stones baking in the sun.

Hayes Valley 2017 Cabernet Sauvignon (CALIFORNIA)

Extremely well balanced and appetizing, this screw capped wine combines absolutely fresh black-cherry flavors with mild oak accents and energizes them with good fruit acidity and moderate tannins. It is medium to full bodied, and will make a lively pairing with a wide variety of dishes. Best Buy.

Lapostolle 2016 "Grand Selection" Chardonnay (CHILE)

Cherry blossom, preserved lemons and a touch of yellow apples. Medium-to-full body, no shortage of fresh citrus fruit that's supported by plenty of fresh acidity. Drink now.

91 POINTS JAMES SUCKLING

$9.99

Zemmer 2018 Pinot Grigio (ITALY)

This savory white opens with aromas of peach blossom and ripe white stone fruit. The medium-bodied palate doles out creamy pear, honeydew melon and tangy acidity.

Loimer 2018 "Lois" Gruner Veltliner (AUSTRIA)

A touch of dandelion leaf joins the pear fruit on the nose. The palate also portrays a gentle earthiness, highlights of citrus and salty yeast, but above all, it is light with subtle flavors and a dry finish.

Ata Rangi 2018 Sauvignon Blanc (NEW ZEALAND)

The 2018 Raranga Sauvignon Blanc follows winemaker Helen Master's recent trend of incorporating a small portion of skin-contact fermentation for increased texture/phenolics and exotic aromas. It's a fine effort, offering up hints of red currants and pink grapefruit on the nose, ample weight and concentration on the creamy-textured palate and a long, tactile finish.
