Mike's Picks of the Week!

Aletta 2014 Garnacha (Spain)

Bright violet color. Assertively perfumed blueberry and cherry compote scents are enlivened by suggestions of cracked pepper and smoky minerals. Zesty, focused and pure, offering gently sweet dark fruit and floral pastille flavors that deepen on the back half. Closes silky and long, with slow-building tannins adding shape and grip. This outstanding value was aged completely in stainless steel tanks.

Lakewood Vineyards 2015 Dry Riesling (New York)

Whiffs of candied orange peels and smoked nuts persist on this dry deftly balanced Riesling. The zesty lime and lemon flavors on the midpalate are tart and revitalizing, lingering through a long slightly earth-toned finish.

$11.99

Paul Cluver 2016 Sauvignon Blanc (South Africa)

The 2016 Sauvignon Blanc is blended with 10% Semillon and is matured in used oak. It has a clean and fresh bouquet with Apple blossom and kiwi fruit aromas, subtle at first but unfolding nicely with time. The palate is well balanced with crisp acidity, a nice phenolic note on the entry with white peach and green apple towards the vivacious finish.

Castelfeder 2015 Pinot Grigio (Italy)

A charming wine that offers an impressive level of varietal character and purity. Pinot Grigio is not particularly prized for its fragrances, but a deep sniff of this wine offers ample evidence of the depth and purity that can be achieved with the grape. Stone and passion fruits abound and the wine offers light tones of vanilla and creamy lemon custard.

Errazuriz 2016 "Max Reserva" Sauvignon Blanc (Chile)

Pungent stony citrus aromas include a distinct whiff of passion fruit. This feels tight, crisp and elegant on the palate, while slightly salty citrus flavors suggest grapefruit and sea brine. A briny finish retains snap and freshness.

$14.49

Cos 2014 Rami White (Italy)

A blend of Grecanico and Insolia and fermented with wild yeasts in concrete tanks, this unusual white offers intriguing aromas of dried Mediterranean herb, sea breeze, candied citrus zest and wild flower. The savory, mineral-driven palate offers nectarine, dried apricot, saline, sage and baking spice while a honey note wraps around the finish.
